Dear Chairman Genachowski and FCC Commissioners,

I'm writing you again as a follow-up to my letter of October 12th regarding the FCC's accelerated timetable to consider new and potentially damaging net neutrality rules.

As I mentioned in my previous letter, I am the editor of the California Journal for Filipino Americans, a voice within the community and one that keeps our constituents informed of the most pertinent current events and how those impact their lives.

We believe it is vital that universal broadband adoption remain the highest goal of the Commission. Net neutrality raises a great many concerns because no one can accurately predict its effects. Any new policy that has the potential to stifle innovation and broadband deployment will only raise costs to those who cannot afford to pay more, as well as reduce their access at the same time.

As you proceed with your deliberations, we encourage the Commission to focus on goals that will lead to universal broadband deployment and adoption; not to the stifling of innovation.

Sincerely,

Joey Quinto
